ALISON STAFFORD

A rural Cheshire based artist primarily concerned with equestrian, animal art and landscapes Alison draws inspiration from her surroundings, and loves to experiment with new techniques!

"Producing art is such a positive thing. Not only do you get to learn something new, and thus expand your mind, but you are also opening yourself up to new possibilities. It is a great way to unwind and clear your mind of the days stress - almost a detox for the brain. I love seeing doubt and self deprecation turned to a sense of pride and the realisation that there is creativity in all of us - it just needs a bit of encouragement and pointing in the right direction to allow it to grow! Once you have the confidence and the knowledge anything is possible.

Alison's workshops are ideal for beginners, but also for those wanting refresher sessions, or to learn new techniques.

Alison is the Chairperson of the Association of Animal Artists and is also a member of the Guild Society of Artists, the Society of Equestrian Artists and also a Professional Artist for the SAA. She has exhibited widely and has her work in private collections including in the US, Canada and New Zealand. She was also a contestant on the BBC's Big Painting Challenge!

KAREN SILLAR

Karen lives in glorious Shropshire countryside which inspires her to work through various medium, through colour and form. Birds hold a particular fascination for her, from a single fragile goldcrest to a mass of wheeling, plunging gannets. Coming from a background in engineering, the process of producing a piece of art holds particular fascination for Karen and in particular, printing brings an intoxicating mix of design, process and surprise.

Karen is also a Pastel junkie as they provide instant colour gratification, and is a great antidote to working out which bit of a lino tile to cut away to get the next colour block!

She is an active member of the Association of Animal Artists, recently taking on a key role on the committee, and exhibiting with them twice a year.

She is also a keen hockey player which is a great way to destress and inject some fresh air!

Karen will be running a series of print lino cut workshops to introduce beginners or those wishing to try a new medium.

JENNY RAINFORD

Jenny is a figurative artist based in the heart of Cheshire. Following a career in design, Jenny retrained as an art teacher and brings a wealth of experience to our workshops. With a genuine passion for exploring mediums and encouraging artistic curiosity.

" I am a bit of a creative magpie taking techniques from one medium and applying them to another. I am excited by mark making and experimenting whether it be in paint, pencil or print. I love to learn and I get great pleasure from encouraging this in others. Nothing is more special than that moment of clarity when a student genuinely sees something in a new way or creates something beyond their anticipation. Not to mention the fabulous feeling of flow we get from becoming immersed in a creative pursuit! To my mind nothing beats it."

Jenny's workshops are structured to meet the needs of complete beginners or to stretch those with existing skills.
